

EELISA COMMUNITY FOR CONSCIOUS LIVING

CALL FOR COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIP

The Budapest University of Technology and Economics is initiating a new EELISA Community called Community for Conscious Living (CCL). The CCL is to create a multidisciplinary platform that brings together professors, students, researchers, companies, and professionals focusing on innovative residential situations and cultural diversity. As an international and interdisciplinary network, CCL believes cultural diversity to be a major asset for Europe in the future. CCL is focused on the ways of innovative contemporary living and aims to address socio-technical challenges.

At this stage we are searching for partners and community members from EELISA European University Network. If you'd like to join the Community for Conscious Living or if you have questions, please contact us: mathe.dora@epk.bme.hu

IMAGE ABOVE

Maquette photo of students' award winning research by design project.

Siavash Dadpour's and Nour Hamdan's work has won Students' Scientific and Art Conference 2021 in their category.

Adaptive reuse of a complete floor of a soviet-type large concrete panel block of flats to create a non-hierarchical spatial structure for a group of students of architecture by breaking down the barriers between the different units.

Scale 1:25
